

Release date: prompt

PublishDrive is here to disrupt the digital book industry

Do you want to be the next E. L. James? PublishDrive has got your back!
The era of authorpreneurs is here: accelerate your book with PublishDrive to get global exposure to billions of readers.

PublishDrive solves the digital transition of a traditional industry – providing a fast, simple, reliable and much cheaper solution for ebook management powered with BI, AI and machine learning. Being a featured partner of Apple from the beginning, PublishDrive aims to cut costs and increase sales in the most innovative way in the industry.

“We provide even the smallest publishers with the right tools to upload their books, manage their distribution and sell them in more than 400 stores such as Amazon Kindle, Apple iBooks, Google Play Books, Barnes & Noble, Kobo and in 240k digital libraries in schools and universities all over the world” – says Kinga Jentetics, CEO & co-founder of PublishDrive, who’s got selected among the honorees of Forbes 2017, 30 under 30 Europe list.

PublishDrive’s mission is to change how ebook publishing works, incorporate business intelligence and develop automated processes. “We see a great potential in digital publishing, which we try to unlock with PublishDrive. We’ve been working on something great and unique in the field of marketing to help our 1200+ publishers to increase their ebook sales by offering them 360° digital marketing solutions supported with AI and provide them with the right tools to maximize the potentials of their back catalog. We’re constantly expanding our retail network, bringing new stores on board to our publishers, who will soon be able to enjoy a new and improved bulk import” - explains Jentetics.

PublishDrive is among the inspiring group of global startups that Google has selected this year to take part in its Launchpad Accelerator Program. Over the summer the core team took part in a 2-week intensive mentoring at Google HQ in San Francisco. During the 6 months long program Google helps startups dig deeper into machine learning and AI, to help them leverage Google’s latest technologies to scale their products.

PublishDrive’s ultimate vision is to make an impact on the book publishing industry and to bring innovation and new technologies to the market so digital publishing and bookselling continue to thrive.

Media contact:

Kinga Jentetics, CEO of PublishDrive
kinga@publishdrive.com

2017